Now

I am about to complete a foundation degree (FdA Creative Digital Communication) at York College. This involves using digital media creatively especially for film making (including sound) and poster design.

I also work as a volunteer with Castaway-Goole. They are a music and theatre group for adults with physical and / or learning disabilities. I assist them in the production of their video newsletter.

Here are some examples of my work.

Then

I left Gosforth High School aged 18 in 1975 and was a junior library assistant in Newcastle upon Tyne for 1 year.

I then studied at Sunderland Polytechnic (1976-80). Firstly I gained 3 A Level (equivalent) passes and then studied for a BSc Combined Studies in Science degree which I did not complete.

I was employed by BAe Systems, Brough, East Yorkshire (1980-2003) as a software designer.

Between 2003 and 2009 I had agency jobs, worked for Royal Mail at Christmas time and had times unemployed.

I have been studying at York College since September 2009.
